How to use E-Journals, E-books and Databases

The Authentication System settings are required to access

e-journals, e-books and databases subscribed to by Kyoto University.

1. Setting up the Authentication System (bookmarklet*)

Setup and usage manual: https://www.kulib.kyoto-u.ac.jp/erdb/13505?lang=en#manual
Agreeing to the Authentication System Agreement is required to use e-resources.

*A JavaScript-based program that is stored as a bookmarked URL in your browser.

2. Access to e-journals, e-books and databases site

Open Access contents dose not need to be accessed via the new authentication system.

3. Click the bookmarklet

By clicking the bookmarklet and authenticating with ECS-ID/SPS-ID, the URLs of e-journals etc. will be rewritten to the URL of the authentication system for Kyoto University (URL including kyoto-u.idm.oclc.org) and the full text will be accessible.

*If you click the bookmarklet on a site other than e-journals, etc. and the message "This Web site is not supported by the authentication system." is displayed, please access the site of e-journals, etc. that Kyoto University has a contract with.

You can also access the full text via ID authentication using the web links below.

- KULINE   · Discovery   · KU ArticleLinker
- E-Journals & E-Books List   · Databases List

*If the URL is not rewritten after jumping from the link, click the bookmarklet.

4. Log out

When you finish using e-resources, close the browser to log out.

Notes: The licenses generally prohibit the following uses: systematic and programmatic downloading, use beyond personal use, reproduction, and distribution. Violation of license agreements may result in suspension of access to e-resources for the entire university.
